Description

Bootstrap Farmer heavy-duty 1010 half-flat trays are a popular choice among microgreen growers for growing two different crops out of our 1020 tray. Chefs and customers don't always want a full-size 1020 of the same crop. These 1010 trays allow you to grow more varieties for your customers.

Featuring no holes, these trays can retain water and work well for bottom watering. These seed starting trays are made of BPA-free, food-safe polypropylene plastic, so you can rest assured that you're growing safely.

★★★★★ Good for bottom watering seedlings

I use these trays for bottom-watering potted seedlings. Works extremely well.

all the bootstrap farmer trays i've used are of excellent quality.

i love the size of these 1010 seedling trays because they hold a manageable quantity of seedlings.
great for organizing different varieties, and for hardening off at different times.

★★★★★ Each seed is different

They are well worth the money. Some seeds just need a deeper tray, with soil. These tray fit the bill. Ones with holes and ones with no holes. I placed grow lights under my kitchen counter and purchased an adjustable wire rack. I can fit four 10 x 10 , and a few 5x5 under counter so my harvest is bountiful. With space left on the counter for several more trays in various stages of stacking and blackout, planning ahead and staging the growth is interesting. The trays are an investment. I plan to switch to micro-greens for my source of greens, more economical overall.
